Park Hyatt Aviara has appointed Richard Powers chef de cuisine of Vivace, the property's signature Italian restaurant. Powers is charged with developing new menu concepts in collaboration with the resort's food and beverage team. When he's not in the kitchen, he spends his free time reading, hiking, woodworking and leatherworking. The 14-year veteran chef graduated with an advanced culinary arts degree from Stratford University in Virginia. 7100 Aviara Resort Drive, Carlsbad. (760) 603-3773. vivace-restaurant.com

CURADERO

Alex Gregg

Curadero has tapped Alex Gregg as its new lead bartender. Gregg brings a well-rounded knowledge in agave spirits. "My core objective is hospitality," Gregg said. "Everything tastes better when you are having a good time." The Texas native added that he looks forward to introducing guests to the easily misunderstood world of agave spirits and presenting them in more approachable ways. 1047 Fifth Ave., Suite 100, San Diego. ## Restaurants in the news

Last month, Wine Spectator magazine released its list of the 2018 Restaurant Award winners, which distributes recognition across three categories: Award of Excellence, Best of Award of Excellence and Grand Award. This year, the magazine honored 3,759 restaurants — located in all 50 states and more than 75 countries and territories — for having outstanding wine lists. Blue Ridge Hospitality's Stake Chop-house & Bar in Coronado received Best of Award of Excellence, along with six other San Diego eateries, including Marina Kitchen, Mister A's, Mille Fleurs, Island Prime and Wine-Sellar & Brasserie. Other award winners include Addison (Grand Award Winner), Coasterra (Award of Excellence), Leroy's Kitchen + Lounge (Award of Excellence) and Mafetalia Ristorante (Award of Excellence). "There is no doubt that Wine Spectator reviews and awards are held in the highest regard in the domestic and international community," said Erik Segelbaum, corporate wine director for the Starr Restaurants group. "Awards of this nature show our wine-loving guests that visiting one of our restaurants is time and money well spent." winespectator.com
